Atkinson Free Public Library Report.

The Trustees of the Atkinson Free Public Library respectfully present their first annual report for the year ending March 1, 1895.

A room has been secured and furnished in the house occupied by Mr. Charles Noyes, and Mrs. Lydia R. Noyes has been appointed Librarian. The books were received from the State in June, and the Library opened on June 30, 1894.

The Library room will be opened every Saturday from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 P. M., and all citizens who comply with the rules will be entitled to its privileges.

One hundred and eighty Library cards have been called for, and the promptness with which books have been read and returned proves how well the public enjoy the privileges that the Library affords.

Books have been received from the following sources: State, 102; Town Clerk's office, 87; Atkinson Book Club, 100, and magazines complete from 1882; Atkinson Grange, 84. Rev. George H. Scott, Wilber F. Wilson, Miss M. A. Page, Enoch P. Hoitt, Mrs. G. N. Cross, Wilber W. Smith, and each of the trustees.

Every courtesy possible will be extended to those taking special courses of reading or study.

A catalogue of the books will be found elsewhere in the report.

ANNUAL REPORT

The following report is respectfully submitted for the year ending March 1, 1895.

SCHOOL NO. 1.

A single term only of this school was kept during the year, the pupils residing in the former district No. 1. having, for the past two or three years, on account of their small numbers attended school No. 3. The school began September 4 and ended on November 9, being ten weeks in length. Whole number of pupils in attendance, five; one of whom Florence B. Given, is reported as not being absent or tardy during the term. The school was taught by Helen P. Tucker of Hampstead, who we think did all that could be expected of her with the small number of pupils at her command, and we are sure that the few who continued to attend until the close of the term, showed a commendable degree of progress in their several studies.

The spring term of this school began April 9 and closed June 21, being eleven weeks in length. Whole number of pupils attending twelve, four of whom—Annie M. Little, Ira F. Whitaker, Bailey S. Bartlett and Oscar P. Little were not absent or tardy during the term. The fall term began September 4 and closed November 23, being twelve weeks in length, whole number of pupils, twenty-one—of which number six—Annie M. Little, Iva F. Whitaker, Bailey S. Bartlett, Hayden Brown, Arthur Batchelder and Henry Batchelder were present at every session of the school. Both terms were under the charge of Mrs. Mary L. Wheeler of this town, a teacher of large experience, she having taught in this and other schools of the town for the past seven years to the general acceptance of our citizens, and whose qualifications as a teacher are too well known to need particular mention in this report.

The winter term was eight weeks in length, beginning December 17, and ending February 8, whole number of pupils, fifteen. The attendance for this term, owing to sickness of the pupils and the very unfavorable weather that prevailed during a part of the term, was very irregular, the average attendance being only nine. It was taught by Mabel A. Smith of Kingston, a graduate of Sanborn Seminary, this being her first attempt at teaching. She succeeded, however, by careful attention to her duties and by her thorough methods of instruction as well as could be reasonably expected, equalling many older teachers, who have had the great advantage of previous experience.

SCHOOL NO. 3.

The spring term of this school commenced April 16, and continued until June 29, a period of eleven weeks. The whole number of pupils in attendance was twenty-two, with an average attendance of eighteen. The names of Vesta A. Smith and Chester E. Crowell appear in the roll of perfect attendance for this term. The school was taught by Carrie E. Ranlett of Hampstead, who proved a most excellent disciplinarian, and who, by the exercise of a great deal of patience and perseverance, at last succeeded in bringing the school into a quiet and orderly state, a condition so necessary to a successful school.

The fall term began September 4 and closed November 23, being twelve weeks in length. Whole number of scholars, 17; average attendance, 14. The name of Vesta A. Smith is the only one that appears on the roll of perfect attendance for this term.

The winter term was eight weeks in length, beginning December 10 and closing February 2. Whole number of pupils in attendance, 18; average number attending, 15. This school was also somewhat interrupted by unfavorable weather. Both fall and winter terms were under the charge of Mary G. Calderwood of this town, and who had been previously employed as teacher in school No. 4, and who is well known as a person possessing many of the qualifications that go to make up a successful teacher, and who, if she continues to follow the profession, will doubtless attain a high position among the instructors of our youth.

SCHOOL NO. 4.

The spring term of this school was taught by Mary G. Calderwood, the teacher of the previous year. The school began April 16 and ended June 29, being eleven weeks in length. Whole number of scholars, nine, with an average attendance of nearly the same, although but one name appears on the roll of perfect attendance—that of Arthur H. Sawyer, who was neither absent nor tardy during the term.

The fall term commenced September 4 and closed November 23, being eleven weeks in length. Whole number of scholars attending, seven, with a good average attendance. Arthur H. Sawyer was neither absent nor tardy during this term also, and Lizzie M. Welch was present at every session and only tardy once.

The winter term began December 10 and continued eight weeks, until February 1, with the same number of pupils as in the fall term, seven. Owing to the severity of the weather one or two sessions of the school were omitted. The fall and winter terms were kept by Martha L. Coolidge of Chester, who came well recommended, and who proved herself both faithful and competent, ably fulfilling all the essential requirements incident to the position of a teacher in our common schools.

SCHOOL NO. 5.

This school commenced April 9 and closed June 29, making a spring term of twelve weeks in length. Whole number of scholars attending, eight.

The fall term began September 4 and was in session for twelve weeks, closing November 23. Whole number of scholars attending this term, eight.

The winter term began December 10 and closed after a five weeks' session on January 11, on account of sickness in the family of the teacher. Whole number of pupils in attendance, six. It is worthy of mention that the number of absences for the three terms of this school is only one per cent. of the attendance, notwithstanding the fact that the scholars were obliged to travel farther on an average than those of any other school in town, in order to reach the school room.

The school was under the charge of Emma B. Gordon, the teacher of the previous year, and who certainly has at least two very important and essential qualifications for a successful teacher, one of which is the art of maintaining good order in the school-room, and the other the faculty or ability of imparting instruction to her pupils, and that scholar must be dull indeed, who fails to make a good degree of progress and improvement while under her care.

In perfect attendance Ethel Damon and Lily Frepe will rank first, they having not been absent or tardy during the year.

Mabel Damon and Edwin Brickett were not absent for two terms; and Arthur Goodrich for the spring term, was present at every session of the school.
